

CULTIVATING WATER WORKSHOP

Presenter Ecologist
Rachael Lindsey

To live in the Hill Country is to care for our springs, streams, and aquifers. This field exploration of Inspiring Oaks Ranch looks honestly at where we've been, what we're facing, and what's possible — learning to read rainfall, plants, and soil as one living system. Thoughtful stewardship won't solve everything, but it's one of the most powerful tools we have to heal what's been broken, hold more water in our lands, and keep it flowing for generations.

Inspiring Oaks Ranch
7901 Farm to Market Rd 2325, Wimberley, TX 78676

Friday, June 5, 2026

Snacks, drinks, Q&A, & socializing after tour

3:00 PM - 6:30 PM CDT

Wear hiking boots & bring water

REGISTER NOW THROUGH QR CODE

$15 per individual
$20 for a couple
cash or Venmo QR code at the door

Workshop information: please call or text Carolyn Vogel, 512-633-4995

Elizabeth McGreevy, author of Wanted Mountain Cedars Dead and Alive will be attending.